FATHER SHOT, SON OFFERS HIS BLOOD

Young Man, at First Suspected, to Risk Life for Germantown Pawnbroker

TENDS TO SUPPORT STORY A son, early today offered to submit to a blood transfusion operation, to save the life of his father, a few hours after the older man was shot.

Hastening to the Samaritan Hospital from City Hall, where he was questioned by Harry Rosenthal, a policeman, entered the operating room. A test was made to determine whether the young man's blood was satisfactory.

Today the father, Abraham Rosenthal, a wealthy pawnbroker, of Atlantic City, was in a critical condition, but a rally which followed an operation may save his life.

Rosenthal was found on the floor of his pawnshop at 2737 Germantown avenue last night, a few minutes after shots had been heard in the office.

The police are investigating every detail of the shooting, and the chief of detectives, Captain Souder, chief of the Germantown division, is getting reports from the men who were with the father before the shooting.

The father is proprietor of a pawnshop at 2737 Germantown avenue, and has a seashore home at 207 East Pacific avenue, Atlantic City. The Germantown business was directed by a younger son, Sol Rosenthal.

According to Harry Rosenthal, his father had been called to come from his home to the pawnshop to assist in going over the accounts. Because of other business, Harry says, he did not arrive at the shop until a few minutes after 6 o'clock.

Then, he continues, he found his father highly agitated. The father is declared to have reached into a desk drawer, drawn a revolver and fired a shot, the bullet grazing his head.

Another shot was heard by men walking on Germantown avenue, and Detective Bene hurried in. Rosenthal was lying on the floor, with a bullet wound in his abdomen, and seemingly in a dying condition. He was removed immediately to the Samaritan Hospital.

While Rosenthal was at City Hall, the word was received that only a bullet transfusion operation would save his parent. The son's plea that he be permitted to give his blood to save the life of his father prevailed, and he hurried to the hospital at midnight.

PROM OF JUNIORS PROVES 'BEST EVER'

Penn Men and Fair Guests See 'Both 'Moonlight' and Daylight

VANITY CASES FAVORS They walked in the "moonlight" and went home in the daylight at the junior ball of the University of Pennsylvania this year.

Philadelphians, from desire or necessity, went to work early today, probably noticed the late weary, limping remnant of the male portion of the revelers seeking their quilted nests for a good two-day sleep.

The taxicab strike which has been functioning here for several weeks, added spice to the reasons for the late night. From being a difficult task of getting a cab in ordinary years, it became a practical impossibility last night.

From 5 o'clock on until—well, it would be more charitable not to say—long lines of frenzied students paced up and down in front of Weitzman Hall, where the dances were held.

But everybody agreed, despite all the drawbacks, that this year's junior ball was the best ever held in years.

The 700 or more dancers began dancing at 10 in the evening with two orchestras, Howard Lanin's local orchestra and the dance band from New York, furnishing the music.

Everything else went off as usual; the decorations, the elaborate, the fraternal view with each other in getting cosy booths for their members along the walls; the male portion of the guests fought gallantly to provide their partners with the much sought-after chicken salad, pickles and ice cream.

HOLMES IN JERUSALEM

Takes Audience to Holy Land in Absorbing Lecture Burton Holmes' illustrated lecture at the Academy of Music last night took the large audience through the holy scenes of Jerusalem.

Through the eye of the camera the audience was taken along the route followed by the Christ on his way to the cross. The manger, the Via Dolorosa, the holy sepulchre and Golgotha were shown in realistic color.

MRS. STANLEY COFALL

CHORUS GIRL WEDS STAR OF GRIDIRON

Irene Held to Quit Stage and Stanley Cofall Will Abandon Football

SHE'LL ROOT AT LAST GAME It took just four weeks—plus the assistance of Halfback Dan Cupid—to rob the football field of one of its brightest stars.

The parties affected are Stanley Cofall, former noted gridiron star at Notre Dame University and at present playing in the backfield of the Union A. A., and Irene Held, a specialty dancer in the Passing Shows of 1917, 1918 and 1919.

"I met Irene just four weeks ago in Cleveland," declared the young husband. "We just went right ahead and got married, and you can bet that neither of us is the least bit sorry."

"Why—er—I'm not very good at that sort of thing, but I want to say that she's right there in every way," he declared, getting a bit red. "She has big brown eyes, and black hair, and—er—she's mighty pretty, let me tell you. Yes, she's short and slender, and you ought to see her dance. And she has brown eyes—oh, yes, I told you that."

"I first met Irene in a moving picture studio in Cleveland," the football star declared. "She was trying her hand at the movies and some friends of mine took me around to see them take some of the scenes. We had a dinner party there and I got well acquainted with her, and he is going to take her to the girl for me."

"Then her show came on East and I came to Philly to play football here, and we kept bumping into each other right along. She admitted that she pretty much as I did and last Saturday night she left the show and we were married to here on Tuesday."

At this point the young Mrs. Cofall came upon the scene. She lived up to all advance notices and then some. "Happy, of course, we are, and we are going to stay so, too. I think she is going to give up football—and just to think, I never saw a football game until a week ago, when I saw him play!"

"Mrs. Cofall was born in Cincinnati, but has been living with her mother in Chicago of recent years. Her work on the stage, which has been her sole profession, he has played three years of professional football in Ohio.

PENROSE CONFERS WITH LODGE TODAY

Discussion of National Issues Here to Be Joined in by Mayor and Rotan

UNION LEAGUE TO BE HOST Conferences that have direct relation to important national, state and city issues will be held this afternoon at the home of Senator Boies Penrose, 1331 Spruce street.

Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, dean of the United States Senate, will confer with Senator Penrose. Mayor Moore and District Attorney Rotan will participate.

Senator Lodge will call upon Senator Penrose shortly after he arrives in this city from Washington, and before he makes the principal address at the Founders' Day observance at the Union League. National legislation, and especially bills which will come up for consideration at the approaching sessions of Congress, will be discussed.

Arrangements were perfected today by which Mayor Moore and District Attorney Rotan will escort Senator Lodge to Senator Penrose's home, and this has strengthened the belief that important state issues are very likely to be discussed at the conference.

Senator Penrose, as chairman of the finance committee of the United States Senate, has always relied upon Senator Lodge for support of his policies on the floor of the Senate, and there are a number of matters that will require early attention in which they are both keenly interested, especially those relating to taxation and the tariff.

DIVORCE IN FETTEROLF CASE

Lawrence O'Loane, Who Got Alienation Verdict, Wins Decree Horace C. Fetterolf, Philadelphia manufacturer and clubman, whose love affair with Mabel Hutchinson O'Loane, of Chicago, resulted in the granting of a $37,500 verdict to the husband in a suit, escaped further mention as "Fetty" in the Chicago courts yesterday, when Judge Harry A. Lewis granted a divorce decree to Lawrence O'Loane.

O'Loane's suit for a legal separation was the outcome of the love affair between his wife and "Fetty"—a suit in which it was testified "Fetty" had promised the woman "four automobiles, seven servants and a Swedish cook." The $37,500 verdict was "revised downward" by the trial judge, from $37,500 to $5000, and final settlement of the action was on the basis of the lower figure.

"That 'Fetty' was not mentioned in the suit yesterday was the result of Judge Lewis' ruling that the plea for divorce was not being contested by Mabel Hutchinson O'Loane. The husband's attorneys were ready to submit a pile of letters and newspaper clippings, but Judge Lewis said, "It isn't necessary."

MANY ROBBERIES TOTAL NEAR $10,000

Jewelry Peddler Takes $1500 From Man With Aid of Revolver

Robberies totalling nearly $10,000 took place in the city yesterday and last night. A peddler, who called by request last night at the home of Keza Goldberg, 920 South Forty-third street, to sell Goldberg jewelry, whipped out a revolver when Goldberg displayed $1500 and escaped with it.

Keza met the peddler-robber yesterday afternoon, and told him that if he brought his wares to his home last night, he might buy some of them for his wife. After he had selected several trinkets, Goldberg took $1500 from his pocket and started to peel off a bill in payment for the jewelry.

"Give it all to me," the peddler ordered, flourishing a revolver. Keza furnished the police of the Third and Dickinson streets station with a description of the robber.

Jack Kochakos, of 324 Gaskill street, reported that he was held up and robbed of his watch and chain by two masked men at Second and Fitzwater streets.

Miss Mary Greer, of 2044 Lombard street, was held up on the street near her home by a highwayman who stole her handbag, containing $5.

Claude Fillmore, of Jefferson street, was held up on the street near Third and turned over to the federal authorities yesterday on charges of robbery and counterfeiting. He was arrested in Craft's drug store, at Philadelphia and Dickinson streets, yesterday afternoon, it is said, he had tried to pass a $2 bill which had been raised to $20.

Five men were arrested yesterday by detectives, charged with systematically robbing the Supplier-Biddle Hardware Co., 517 Commerce street. Repeating rifles, hunting knives and other goods valued at $2000 are alleged to have been stolen by the men, all of whom were employed by the company.

The way the goods were stolen was disclosed by Lawrence Dennis, one of the five men, who was the driver of a parcel wagon owned by the company. Dennis, the police say, informed them of the stealing when detectives were about to make arrests. The police say the four other men gave Dennis packages addressed to their houses. In most instances the names would be wrong, but the addresses right. After the goods were delivered the men took them to pawnshops and sold them, the detectives assert.

The five men were each held in $1000 bail for a further hearing December 3. The other four gave their names as:
